MEETS THE CONSEQUENCE OF CHOICE

The ISAR 2016 Symposium is the first-ever large gathering event that will focus exclusively on a most intriguing aspect of astrology – FORECASTING.

Over 50 world-class astrologers, who specialize in the practice of forecasting – both world trends and events in the lives of individuals – will offer their unique insights. Join us October 13-17, 2016, just three weeks before the critically important USA 2016 presidential election. The symposium will be hosted at the beautiful Orange County Hilton Hotel, located in Costa Mesa, California, just 4 miles from the Orange County John Wayne Airport (SNA) and 40 miles from the Los Angeles International Airport (LAX).

This will be no ordinary astrological gathering. You will have an opportunity to learn reliable techniques used by professional astrologers to make forecasts and predictions. These range from modern-day western applications such as transits, progressions, and returns, to classical, traditional, and Vedic eastern interpretations.

These methods will be offered in a choice of five different tracks taking place over three days, October 14-16. This event also offers a choice of five pre- and post-symposium workshops taking place one day before and after the individual symposium classes (October 13 and October 17).

Forecasting is one of the most sought after tools of the professional astrologer. It is also the most challenging skill to deliver with consistent accuracy.
